IT seems that there is after all to be no international question about the small island which, after remaining unknown to almost the whole world, has suddenly sprung into prominence. The possession of Marcus Island apparently will not be allowed to become a subject of contention, between Japan and the United States of America. the latter Power never having shown auxiety to see the "Stars and Stripes" hoisted over he island and being now unwilling to engage in contention over it. As the sup- 30 years of age and, so far as is known, Hongkong Volunteers, the Hongkong and posed discoverer of Marcus Island, Captain ROSEHILL, is not known to have abated his claims (which from the account which we published yesterday certainly appear strong), there may yet be negotiations about the ownership, but the New York Press, as our London correspondent informs us, is not sympathetic to Captain Rosenill's side of the case, from which we may assume that the question does not arouse public REUTER's telegram of the 25th indeed, already showed this. Japan, on the other hand, has taken more energetic action, no doubt on account of the intention of working the island as a Government concern. Geographically considered, Marcus Island, would appear most naturally to belong to Japan, if to any nation, for from the latest information, as to its position it is not far from the Bonin Islands over which Japan's sovereignty is of course undisputed. It has been customary to regard the Bonin Islands as the casternmost of Japan's possession (south of the main islands, that is), but there are other islets east of the Bonins, which it would not be surprising to see Japan claim should they prove to have any commercial value. We

1 do not imagine that any other Power would care to dispute the possession of such specks of land, undesirable as places of residence and not accessible except at certain periods of the year.

TRE Japan Mail some days ago felt impelled to rebuke "the extreme grossness of language and invective habitually employed by Shanghai and Hongkong journals when discussing the acts of the Chinese Court and of Chinese high officials." The immediate cause of the Mail's strictures, however, was not a remark about any Chinese dignitaries, but some certainly foolish headlines which were put over REUTER's telegrams about the movements of Prince Komateu, in a Shanghai paper. The Shanghai'journal, feeling that REUTER gave considerable space to the doings of the Japanese prince, to the exclusion of other news, expressed this feeling in headlineanbove the telegrams which were intended to be humorous. The Japan Mail, dealing | Lientenant Henry was to be interred at Plouwith the question, said that it was incomparably more important that English journals printed in Shonghai and China

mentary tules of politoness in speaking of the Sovereign and of the high officials of the land whose hospitality these newspapers enjoy." ... We need not dwell on the fact. that in the island of Hongkong at least we do not enjoy the hospitality of China, strictly speaking. We may be content to, Gloucostershire, and Kent will also be met, be reckoned with Shanghai and China ports (wherever they may be) in which English newspapers are published. The Japan Mail declares that the things said constantly about the Empress Downger are brutal, that the things said about the late Li Hund-CHANG used to display equally disgraceful liceuse, and so on. We do not know whether our Yokohama contemporary is prepared to defend the Empress Dowager and the late Li Hung-chang against the The disgruntlement" is positively awful to charges which stirred up the Press of Shanghai and Hongkong aga: : them. We should imagine not, and that it is only the language to which the Mail objects We would venture to say that in no Hongkong paper has language been used with regard to high Chinese personnages which could not equally well appear in a London paper. Free criticism is only to be expected in a British colony like Hongkong, where of course the Press is on a different footing from that of the English Press in Yokohama, for instance. Shanghai's case is different nguin from Hongkong's, but it remains to be proved that reputable Shanghai papers have used "brutal" and "disgraceful' language, as they are charged with doing. The mere assertion of the Yokohama journal

A "Recent Visitor to Mucao" writes :- It is rather curious to observe that though so many notable improvements have been made in the buildings and laying cut of Macao since H. E. The late Marquis Saige, one of the " Elder Statesmen" of Jopan, was born at Kagoshima orowds. in April, 1848. His official career commenced in August, 1860. He proceeded to China in the suite of the late Ambassador Okubo in August, 1874. He was sent to the International Exhibition held at Philadelphia in January 1876. In September 1878 he accepted the portfolio of Education and acted for the War-Minister during the indisposition of Marquis Yamagais. In July, 1882, he was created a peer, receiving the rank of Count. On 23rd December, 1885, he was appointed Minister of the Counciller, and Minister of the Navy in March. 1893. He was appointed War Minister in October, 1894, and again became Navy Minister in Beptember, 1898. Ihn title Geneut (Rield Marshal) was conferred on him in January, 1888. According to the Japanese journals the remark. able feature of the Marquis's character was his frankness and honesty. He was generous minded -more so than could be known by outsidersand loyal to the interests of the throne.

ACCIDENT ON PEAK TRAMWAY

CARS STUPPED. On Monday night, about nine o'clock, an nocident happened on the Peak Tramway which resulted in the temporary stoppage of the running of the cars. The accident, in its circumstances, was a very simple one indeed, merely the sudden putting on of the brake on a car coming down the hill and the dislocation practically of the cable. From enquiries made at the office of the general managers, Messrs. John D. Humphreys & Son, we learn that the driver of the car in question just after the downward journey had been commenced, for some reason or other suddenly lowered the brake-handle, the result being that the brokes clutched the rails with such force as to stop the car instantaneously and, as has already been said, jarring the cable to the point of dislocation. The the 16th August at noon. driver's explanation is that the brake. handle was wet and accidentally slipped. The necessary repairs were carried out with all cars was resumed at 7 o'clock last night.

SUPREME COURT.

Tuesday, 20th July.

In SUMMARY JURISDICTION.

BEFORE HIS HONOUR A. G. WISE (Puisur Judon).

HANSEN U. MARTY.

In this case H. C. Hansen, lately third engineer on the s.s. Hongkong, sued A.R. Marty for $511, being wages and board alleged to be Grist, of Messrs. Wilkinson & Grist, solicitotal appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. P. W. Goldring of Mesers, Deacon & Hastings, solicitors, for the defendant.

In his evidence, which had been given on a previous date before the Registrar, Captain J. T. Pannier of the Hongkong, had stated that he had been master for two and a half years. His first engineer opgaged the plaintiff and brought him on board the steamer. Witness could not remember when he joined the steamer. The chief engineer gave witness plaintiff's name and he reported the matter at the French Consulate according to custom. The plaintiff, who was a Dane, did not sign the articles, because foreigners never did so. They only required their names on the articles in case of need. The French Consul entered the name on the articles. The plaintiff mover signed any paper to witness's knowledge, nor did witness give him any. He was unable to say whether Mr. Marty or the chief engineer had done so. There were certain rules attached to the articles; he had not them by him at that time; they had been mislaid. In reply to questions which were formally objected to by Mr. Grist, witness - stated that these rules were supposed to apply to French subjects only and that the rule affecting the engagement of engineers and officers was that when shipped in a French port they must be returned to the port of engagement they night not be discharged at a foreign port except by consent; foreigners might be discharged, but not Frenchmen. In further evidence. witness deposed that they were bound to take Frenchmen when they were obtainable at the port of departure. The plaintiff was discharged at Hongkong. Notice of discharge was given to him at Haiphong. He was discharged on 7th April and got notice of discharge on the 2nd. There was no reason why foreigners did not sign the articles; it was the law. The reason he discharged the plaintiff was that he had another French engineer to take his place. He was compelled to take the The plaintiff had been about a year on board. During his employment on board there was a case of a man named Kandt who was discharged by the chief engineer under similar circumstances. The chief engineer was supposed to know the rules relating to 24 hours' notice. He believed so, as the chief engineer exercised, that power in Kandt's case. There was an entry in the articles against the name of foreigners to the following effect-Etrangers non-inscrite. The chief engineer was a foreigner. He was not on the articles either. He was on the same footing as the others. It was also customery for sugmeers and officers on these ships to give 24 hours notice only of their intent to leave; therefore this notice was reciprocal. That had happened several times since he had been in command of the ship. The wages were paid at the end of the month on the ships arrival at Hongkong. Cross-examined - The articles on which plaintiff's name appeared were in Haiphong. He entered plaintiff's name on these and Consul visued it. These articles were at the office of the Commissaire de la Marine : they were in the archives. He gave the rules attached to the articles to Mr. A. R. Marty. The articles were not complete without the rules. When he gave the rules to Mr. Marty this claim had already been made. Mr. Morty had told him that the papers had disappeared from off his table. The rules were printed and were obtainable. Only Frenchmen were bound by the ship's articles. Theso rules were sunposed to apply to Frenchmen only. The rules did not say so. The steamer was not subsidised by the French Government, because of the foreigners on board. He could only say that the owner would not get the subsidy as long as he had a foreign crew. The subsidy might be allowed as long as the captain and the first engineer were French. That law had not yet rassed. The rules provided for four months' notice on both sides. These rules were attached to the articles when the plaintiff's

His Lordship, addressing Mr. Grist, remarked that he was practically suing on the French articles and rules; had he got them P

Mr. Grist said he had not. He thought they had quite sufficient to go upon in the captain's statement that the rules provided that four months' notice should be given or taken There was also the statement of the captain to the effect that the rules did not state that they applied to French subjects only.

H. C. Hansen, the plaintiff, being called, deposed that he was a native of Denmark. and that he had been engaged as third engineer of the H. notong on Christmas Day. 1900. The chief engineer engaged him and took him on board, His, pay was to be $90 a month, with $35 for board. When he went on board he did not see the chip's articles, nor did he see them at all. The own engineer explained to him the terms of the gagement, toid that his name was put in the articles. explained what was contained in the articles and that there was four montagnotice on either side. He joined the ship on that understanding. He left on 7th April and was paid up till let April He was told at Halphone that his services would not be required after reaching Hongkong. The reason given was that they were going to carry a French third enginder. He now claimed $511 of salery and board money for four months and seven days. Crosseram red He had been twelve years at sea and seven years on the China coast. The notice given on ships of other nationalities varied when no stipulation was made. He had not been on English ships. On German ships it was live months. Mr. Goldring proceeded to address the Court. arguing that plaintiff was only a superhume rary and that it was the custom for officers and ongineers other than first officers and first engineers, to be subject to only 24 hours' notice on either Bide.

His Lordship said he desired to have the French Consul present in order to learn what the conditions of engagement were in this case. An adjournment was accordingly made. On the Court resuming in the afternoon, M. R. Reau the French Asting Consul stated in answer to questions by his Lordship that he had seen the articles on Franch ships and | The Waventer Pap. Due Pictwick Pan. that foreigners entered on the articles as mon-INE OWL PER Waverley Works, Edinburgh inscrite were not entitled to the benchts with regard to augmentation of pay and pension that belonged to French seamen and ingineers.

Cross-examined - Supposing a man were engaged in Hongkong and he were a French subject, he was entitled to the benefit of the articles. Were he non-inscrit, he would be bound by the custom of the port.

W. S. Beiley deposed that he was superintendent of Mr. Marty's ships and had been so for four years. He engaged the chief engineers, and the juniors were generally engaged by the chiefs. The amount of notice given on the Marty stenmers, so far as his knowledge went, was the same as on all other ships-24 hours. This, he thought, was universal. It due to plaintiff in lieu of notice. Mr. E. J. was a recognised thing, so much so that no trouble was taken to inform the men of it. By his Lordship-The chief engineers could be dismissed on 21 hours' notice.

Cross-examined-Any engineer on the river and coast steamers could be dismissed on 24 hours notice. He believed that the 24 bours' clause appeared on these ships' articles. He had not seen the articles of the Marty steamers and did not know whether four months' notice was arranged for on either side.

Mr. Goldring, in addressing the Court at the conclusion of the evidence, said that the Consul's statement was clear that a stranger ont on the arti. les of a French ship, signed by the Consul or the captain, as the case might be, was not entitled to the benefit of those regulations to which the plaintiff claimed to be entitled, and that a stranger who was noninscrit was precluded from those benefits and ras bound by the custom of the port.

His Lordship in delivering judgment said he must go against the defoudant. He had asked Mr. Marty to produce blank forms of the articles and rules and this had not been done. He was perfectly certain that they must have such blank forms somewhere about.

Mr. Go'dring remarked that he had tried to get them for bingself and had been told that they were only obtainable from Haiphong. His Lordship gave judgment for the plaintiff

SEIZURE OF LOOT FROM PEKING.

PRICELESS IMPERIAL SEALS.

Five imperial jade seals of the Chinese Imperial Government and twelve jade sacred tublets from the imperial temple in Peking were seized by the customs officers at San Francisco last month. The seals and ten of the tablets were part of the baggage of First Lieutenant John B. Schoeffel of the Ninth Infantry, and the other two tablets were in the possession of A. Hesse, who returned on the transport Sherman. The seizure is regarded by the local customs officials as one of the most important the intention of both Schooffel and Hesse to get | into the most hopeless confusion. Not an the jade through the Custem-house without discovery, for it was not on the manifest of the ships nor declared as part of the baggage.

He was with his company, M. of the Ninth Infentry, and took part in the advance on bly see the vindication of this view before longand capture of Peking by the allied forces in 1900. That campaign was memorable for the tremendous amount of loot seized by the efficers and men of the allied forces, although it was the general impression at the time that the in their looting as the others. Schoeffel says however, that he is just where he compared treat their British friends to a right royal time from a Chinese, who sold them to him for $50. The Chinese was very mysterious in his actions and anxious to sell. He had packed it away in the same box that it was seized in yesterday. taking it to Manila, where it remained for about two years. When seized, the Lieutenant was anparently the most unconcerned man in the crowd about the baggage. He allowed it to be taken away without a protest and went on directing the examination and transfer of the company, is to be found in their own nominally Christian

The seizure was made by Inspector Victor J. Lindquist. Although all laggage from the Philippines is given a close examination, the customs inspectors were quietly given the sip to pay special attention to the bargage of the Ninth Infantry, for it was thought a great deal of loot would be found that came from China. The Chinese Government has offered large rewards for the recovery of certain articles which disappeared during the foreign occupation of Peking, and for these articles foreign. Governments had been asked to watch.

The sacred tablets from the imperial temple were considered the most important. Each tablet is a history of the roign of one emperor and is of enormous value, bolk from point age and sentiment, as they have never pliented. Both the tablets and the seals are or the parest jade, flawless and bighly polithed. The carying is evidently the work of an artist. The seals are heavy, about five inches square and two inches thick, and have elaborate handles in the form of dragous with five toes, which i dicates that they belong to the imperial family. The tablets are about one foot long by four in width and half an inch thick. The seals have fine silk cords of yellow attached to them, and the tablets are protected by silk mats of yellow, another evidence of their imperial character. The jade was taken to the office of Heputy Surveyor St. John, who placed it in safe keeping pending a decision of the Treasury Department, which will be notified by the Collector of the Port. It will probably be returned to

As these articles are undoubtedly official property of the Chinese Government and are unlawfully in the possession of the persons who brought then into port, I beg to herewith put in my protest against delivering them up into the hands of any persons whomsoever until proved. We will on behalf of our Government. put in our protest and application for its return also with the department at Washington, D.C. Of course, it will take us time to properly produce our systemes as to the status of these seals and tables.

REVIEWS.

Siam in the XXth Century. By J. G. D. CAMPBALL. London, Edward Arnold.

(Second Notice.) MR. CAMPBELL divides his book, after the introductory section, into chapters upon the geography and commerce of Siam, the country's pest history, the Biamese character and civilisation, manners and customs, government and administration, religion, and education. Chapters follow on the Chinese in Sism and upon inter_ national questions, leading up to the conclusion, from which we have already quoted. Among descriptions of Siam which we have read Ma Campbell's takes a high place, and his studied fairness gives it a high value. The chapter "Sinm in the Past" is brief and necessarily summary, but, short of a history of Siam. gives as much as the ordinary reader requires. The section on the Sismese character and civilisation is hardly consolatory to well-wishers of Siam, though the author, as we have implied, of the scales. Indeed, in the latter connection is far removed from the bitter critics of Siam who have lately made themselves heard freely. The effect of Chinese and European competition, after the opening up of the country, fleet, and in that respect he will doubtless have promises little good, Mr. Campbell thinks, for the sympathy and support of his readers. The the indolent natives. In trade certainly, and politics and administration probably, Siam will continue in a condition of dependence on foreigners. The dangers threatened from Chinese immigration are discussed in a special chapter. But Mr. Campbell, it is to be noted, is no believer in the "Yellow Peril," which some suppose to meunce the world. The intermixture of Chinese blood in Siam which arises. from the Chinese immigrants marrying Siamewomen is doing something to strengthen the weak and apathetic Siamese character, so that in some ways the Chinaman seems to be benefitting Siam-as is only fair seeing how he draws money from the country. The chapter on manners and customs is decidedly more complimentary to the Sinmese than its predecessor, and Mr. Campbell looks with & kindly eye on the weys of the people among whom he has resided. "The lover of quaint customs and ceremonies and the student of old-world beliefs, comparisons are odious, and we readily grant he says, "are likely for many years to come to find much to attract them in this little visited corner of the world." With regard to the government of Siam, Mr. Campbell's opinion is that, were the control of the European officials at present removed, in the history of the port. It was evidently nearly every Government office would relapseencouraging verdict this, but it is shared by practically every European writer on Siam. But this is not the place for a discussion of such a kind. Mr. Campbell at any rate sees less sham Buddhism than sham Christianity in the world, and warns the missionaries in Siam that their greatest obstacle fellow-countrymen. "A heavy responsibility," he concludes his two chapters by saying, "lies on those who come to Siam for the purpose of filling their purses and furthering their own ends if they do not at least set before these people" [the Sizmose] "the example of a clean and honourable life."

Another interesting chapter is that devoted signs of the Siamese becoming an intellectual. people, though they are intellectually quick especially at the start. Hope, however, may perhaps be derived from the fact that the Siamese are at any rate not yet intellectually exhausted, for they have no literary past. With the concluding chapter, on political questions, we need not deal further, as we have paid some attention to it already in our first notice of Siam in the XXth Century. We will take leave of Mr. Campbell's volume by recemmending it cordially to all interested in Siam and its future. We must not forget to mention that the illustrations, from photographs, are excellent and that the get-up of the book does credit to the publisher.

Edited, with an introduction, by MONTGO-MERY CALMICHARL. London, John Murray. MR. WALSHE was well known to scholars as perhaps the greatest living authority on matters Franciscan; otherwise he had practically no fame.' A New Trafolgur; a Tale of the Torpedo Fleet. By A. C. CURITS. Kelly & Walsh, Queen's Road Cantral.

DEALING with a theme very much discussed nowadays by authors of a certain school-literary "Jingoes," one might term them-A New Trafalger, which tells of a great final naval war between England and three Continental Powers, is no more and no less readable than others of its class. The book, however, do s something beyond the more narrating in pleasing form of events and incidents in this imaginary juternational conflict; it illustrates the weak points of the British Navy, and the insufficiency of the Mediterranean Squadron is startlingly emphasised by its total destruction corly in the strife. The impregnability of Gibraliar, too, is scoffed at, and the great British fortress, the "Key of the Mediterrenean," is made to sucoumb after two hours' shell-fire from the Spanish shore, the Spaniards having profited by the breaking out of hostilities and turned their guns on the Rock, whose obsolete artillery randered defence impossible. Britain's numercial superiority in cruisers, according to the author, is her salvation, but the great part played by the torpedo-boats had no little weight in determining the ultimate awing the tenor of the author's remarks inclines one to the belief that he would like to see a material increase in the numbers of the "mosquito" story of this great naval contest, in which England is pitted against and defeats a combination compused of Germany, Russis, and France is graphically told, and, indeed, is the sort of narrative one likes to read right through at a sitting, not stopping until the curtain has been rung down on the last act in the great tragedy unfolded in its pages. To descend to the practical however, and contrast reality with fiction, an element which inclines generally to exaggeration, it is interesting and even amusing to compare the author's statement of the achievement of the Powerful in this time of national exigency in coaling 1,200 tons in ten hours with the record of the Terrible-of the existence of which time cruiser, strange to relate, not the remotest mention is made in the book-which recently in this harbour took on board 2,500 tons of coal in nine hours

An extraordinary riot in which about 1,000 Japanese blue jackets took part occurred in the great naval port of Kure, on Sunday last. Just in Siam, and very interesting chapters they are. before the day fixed for the Coronation festivities, a British war vessel, the Eclipse, had come into the port, and the Japanese turs tenets than many others who have dealt with of the Mikasa. The fete came off and the British handy men" found nothing to complain of. has been the case in this instance. The Pone Not so the Japanese. They saw clearly that an inferior class of geisha had been supplied to munity where their very presence stirs up dance for the Britishers, and they quietly wrath instead of a Christian spirit, and this determined to take revenge. First of all they waited till the Eclipso left the port for Weihai- | property. As a result a certain sum is to be wei, so that none of their British friends would get into trouble. Then they went to work with extraordinary secrecy and resolution and success. At nine o'clock on the night mentioned a shrill whistle was heard in front of the Sanyo Savings Bank of Kure, and it had scarcely sounded when some thirty sailors, who seemed to have risen suddenly out of the earth. poured into the Bank and began knocking it to smithereens, when suddenly one of them. cried out that it was the wrong house. The work of destruction then ceased as suddenly as it had begun, and making profuse apologies to the plarmed officials of the Bank, the men left to education in Siam. Mr. Campbell sees no the building in a body. Meanwhile similar bands of blue jackets were swarming all over the city, smashing electric lights and street lamps and leaving the streets in complete darkness. When this object had been achieved, the main body of the rioters-800 strong and marching in perfect order - attacked the Taraka Hotel, the inhospitable hostelry which had supplied the Britishers with an inferior article in the way of danseuses. The attack was conducted to the sound of trumpets and. being pressed home vigorously from several quarters at once, was immediately successful. the enraged seamen pouring into the house from all sides with herce warcries. None of the immates were molested, but the house and everything in it were torn to pieces. The costly screens the sliding doors, the matting on the floor, the furniture, even the walls were smashed or torn. The cost y garments of the geisha were taken out of the wardrobes and torn to pieces. All this was done in about a The Life of John William Walshe, F. S. were not all a dream. At the same time another corps had arrived at the headquarters of the gentha but, luckily for the latter, some naval officers happened to be amusing themselves there, and the rioters decamped like a pack of school children.

The third corps attacked the police station in order to resole two of their compades, who been captured during the row, but the police formed into a solid phalank in front of the station with drawn swords, and at the same time were not in that station. The blue jackets then tore along the streets knocking down every policeman they met. The last place attacked was made a stout defence, firing plenty of blank cartridges, and finally repelling their assailants. Soon after this the rioters left the shore for their various ships with the same remarkable ceedings. Unfortunately about a hundred of the blue scheta will be court-martialled for their

The strangest thing about this riot was the times it looked as if the blue jackets were going ! through their ordinary evolutions. Hongkong, 6th May, 1902. THE FRIARS IN THE PHILIPPINES.

The following article appeared in the San Francisco Chronicle before the hitch occurred between the Vatican and the US. Commissioners :---Despatches from Rome indicate that a final settlement will be promptly reached of what is possibly the most vexations question connected. with our administration of the Philippines. The original rebellion against the Spanish authority in the archipelago had its origin in disputes between the friers holding large bodies of land and the persons living on them and in their neighbourhood. The American people do not know the merits of this question, having for the most part heard but one side of the story. What they do know is that the friars have been driven from their holding by an exasperated population and that they do not dare to return, even under American protection. The demand of the Filipinos has been for the forcible confiscation of these lands after the manner practised in California before American conquest, Mexico, and many other Catholic conutries. That, of course, was impossible under American government. At the same time the situation as it exists is intolerable, and will not be tolerated. The Philippine Government could doubtless place soldiers enough in the vicinity of the lands to protect from open violence all friars ion. Another course open is condemnation of the lands, but to that there is serious objection. The sensible thing to do is to purchase the lands and sell them in small tracts to those living upon them, and that is the course which has been pursued. To this end Governor Taft has been conferring with the church authorities at Rome, and when both parties to a transaction desire to do right, and where the one which has the power is disposed to be generous, there is usually slight difficulty in reaching a conclusion. That can have no wish to keep the friers in a com-Government has no wish to sequestrate church paid to the church for lands not actually devoted to religious purposes and the Government will then deal with the people. This will doubtless be a long and tedious process, as it is said that there is a great number of disputed titles. It is also stated that the dispossessed friars will be sent to other fields promising greater usefulness even to enforce payment of rents. That is, of

A number of processes have been devised for removing from tobacco its harmful ingredients. especially the nicotine; but the trouble is that the residue is generally not only harmless, but insipid. Now, however, an experimenter named Gorold, of Halle, Germany, claims to have succeeded in neutralising the injurious principles of tobacco without taking from it the flavour so much prized by smokers. The following description of Gerold's method and its results is

The leaves are treated with a solution of tannic acid. which has the property of fixing alkaloids so that the nicotine and the essences contained in the plant, such as nicotianin, etc., are neutralised and rendered inoffensive. It would appear that this operation does not cause the tobacco to lose its flavour. To renew the perfume dear to the smoker, which is injured by the tannic, the tobacco is then scaked in a prepared decoction of the plant Origanum rulgare (wild marjoram). These olgars are now sold in America, Germany, and Russia, and are, it appears, much liked by smokers, while they are recommended by physicians.

Careful experiment has shown, we are told, that this mode of preparation removes all toric properties from the tobacco. After smoking the prepared cigars, the arterial pressure and the pulse remain precisely the same as before. A solution of the treated tobacco was even injected into the veins of various animals without serious results. A large number of the cigars have been smoked by m. Bardet, who reports on them as follows:-

agreeably the taste of tobacco; one can barely detect a very slight difference between them and ordinary cigars of the same quality. This surely gives them a great advantage over the so-called den notinised tobaccos." Wishing to make some experiments on the action of this tobacco. M. Bardet smoked be-

IMPERIAL QUARTO INGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY. WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION.

For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given, the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space. achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications. To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration :-Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000 whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words and upwards of 600,000. Chinese characters Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student amples to display the various applications and tigator of mysteries, was lolling back in my But strangely enough, mention of the name equivalents of different words which have one gineral meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherto published.

For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to compunicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very lew indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested in China it cannot but be invaluable occasionally. It comprises upwards of two thousand large quarto pagos.
